Stephen has a broad corporate transactional and commercial litigation practice. He also serves as outside general counsel to companies in a wide variety of industries.

Stephen handles corporate transactional matters for his private company and entrepreneur clients, from start-up through maturity. He handles their formations, mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, and other contracts. He negotiates on behalf of his clients, drafts their agreements, and advises on issues arising in connection with their day-to-day operations.

A veteran litigator and courtroom lawyer, Stephen has litigated significant cases on behalf of his corporate and individual clients in federal and state courts throughout the United States. He handles bench and jury trials and is also an accomplished appellate attorney. He also represents his clients in arbitrations, mediation and administrative proceedings before government agencies.

Stephen’s practice spans industries. He has broad experience in a wide variety of matters, including private company disputes and “business divorces,” unfair competition, fraud and business torts; restrictive covenant and employment disputes; claims involving corporate governance, officers and directors; publicly traded and privately sold securities; financial instruments and banking issues; real estate and construction projects; and breach of contract disputes of all types.

Stephen is known by his clients and peers for his practical mindset and creativity. He is rated AV® Preeminent™ by Martindale-Hubbell and is a member of the Theodore Roosevelt Inn of Court, a society of attorneys, law professors, and judges in New York.

Outside his legal practice, Stephen is a sought-after author, speaker, and educator. He regularly publishes on legal and business-related subjects in journals nationwide. He also presents continuing legal education courses to fellow attorneys, business owners and executives. He serves in multiple leadership roles in both the American Bar Association and New York State Bar Association.

Stephen is also active in nonprofit and civic work. He is a director of and outside general counsel to a New York nonprofit and involved both in national and local organizations.
